Dear Family Pride Roofing:

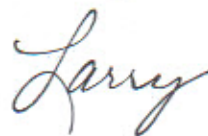

Family Pride most certainly exemplifies the manner in which your company functions.

From my first encounter with Eric, when he came to provide an estimate and explanation of the work to be done, he was one of the most professional and informative sales persons I have ever met. He fully explained the process, brought a scale model to demonstrate the roofing installation and showed a DVD demonstration. He had an estimate ready for me at the end of his presentation and in no way did he pressure me into signing a contract immediately as other sales people had attempted to do. When he left my home, I was convinced that the company he represented was the type of company I wanted to do business with.

When work began on my house, Bret and George worked tirelessly to complete the job. I was asked to inspect each step of the process and shown where damage to the under roofing had occurred and how they would remedy the problems they found. The work was done with no fuss and no mess. Neighbors commented on how impressed they were with the quality of the work, professionalism of the installers and the clean up after the job was completed. When the work was complete the final bill was well within the estimate first provided with no surprises or price adjustments.

I highly recommend Family Pride Roofing. They are true to their name.

Sincerely,
